Hi Neighbor!

WELCOME to Saskatchewan — Canada's newest vacation-land!

Saskatchewan's versatile playgrounds will thrill and enchant you—and call you back, again and again.

The larger portion of the province's more than one-quarter million square miles consists of parkland and timber-belt and virgin vastness of forest, rock and streams. Among thousands of lakes, eternal rocks and rushing streams, in the tangy depths of untouched forests, the vacationer will find recreation in the fullest sense. Here is Canada's finest fishing, canoeing, swimming, hunting, camping—and countless quiet havens where the lazy philosopher may feast his heart on the bounties of nature ..

Saskatchewan is a friendly province; its spirit of pioneer fellowship and co-operation is as strong today as it was a few generations ago when it was first claimed for civilization and mankind. The people you meet are an important part of holiday travel anywhere...the people of Saskatchewan will contribute greatly to the happiness and memories of your visit...

This booklet has been compiled for your convenience; it will give you a complete picture of the tourist accommodation facilities available in Saskatchewan. When you decide where you wish to stay, it would be advisable to write for reservations, confirmation of rates, etc. For any further information, please contact us.

Have a happy holiday.

Sincerely yours,

Tourist Branch

Museums for the Visitor

The beautiful new Museum of Natural History in Regina

Saskatchewan has a number of fine, cultural museums that all visitors should see. Among these, the new Museum of Natural History in Regina is a standout. Other showcases of Saskatchewan's historical lore are the Western Development Museum at Saskatoon, with branches at North Battleford and Yorkton; the R.C.M.P. museum at Regina; the Fort Battleford Historical Park at Battleford; Lund's Wildlife Exhibit at Prince Albert and the Moose Jaw Wild Animal Park.

The Museum of Natural History is housed in one of the finest buildings in the west. The Governor-General of Canada, the Right Honourable Vincent Massey, officially opened the museum in May, 1955, as part of Saskatchewan's Golden Jubilee Year celebrations.

The museum boasts an excellent realistic collection of wildlife, displayed in their natural habitat. A section on fossils, which provide a record of early plant and animal life, has proven to be popular with visitors. All specimens were discovered and collected in the province.

Indian beadwork, tools and clothing are also prominent in the collection.

WESTERN DEVELOPMENT MUSEUM

The major museum is located at Saskatoon, with branches at North Battleford and Yorkton. Featured here are impressive displays of the farm machinery and implements which played an important part in the development of the province.

R.C.M.P. MUSEUM

The North-West Mounted Police, as the famed Royal Canadian Mounted Police were once called, were organized nearly 100 years ago to maintain law and order in the new settlement of Western Canada. An excellent display, depicting their early history, may be seen in the museum at the Regina barracks.

FORT BATTLEFORD HISTORIC PARK

The original Saskatchewan post of the North-West Mounted Police has been preserved and is located at the town-site of Battleford, four miles south of the city of North Battleford. The buildings, constructed in 1876, contain a number of interesting exhibits.

LUND'S WILDLIFE EXHIBIT

Prince Albert

Located on the banks of the North Saskatchewan River in Prince Albert, it is one of the largest collections of wildlife exhibits to be found on the North American continent. There are more than 800 specimens of Canadian animals, birds and fish, uniquely depicted in their natural habitat.

MOOSE JAW WILD ANIMAL PARK

Wild animals of all types roam this 500 acre park located one and a half miles south of Moose Jaw. It is an ideal picnic spot with a grand opportunity for big-game hunting with a camera.

HUNTING AND FISHING PARADISE

The Province of Saskatchewan is fast becoming famous as a sportsman's paradise. The frontier is being pushed further and further north, and some of our fame as a wheat-producing area is now being shared with terrific fishing and hunting stories.

Excellent fishing and hunting abounds in Saskatchewan. Sportsmen come from all over the continent to cast their lures in our lakes and rivers—many of them just newly opened to anglers by the construction of new roads and highways. And in the fall of the year, there is tremendous hunting all over the province.

The numerous resorts and camps that cater to the fisherman and hunter are listed in this booklet. We have extensive further information available on both sports at our Tourist Branch office, such as where to hunt and fish; area maps; the latest regulations on both sports, and excellent fishing and hunting folders.

If you wish to obtain some of this information on Saskatchewan's hunting and fishing, don't hesitate to drop us a line, or call on us. There is no charge.

Our address—Tourist Branch, Department of Travel and Information, Legislative Annex, Regina.

HISTORIC SITES

Saskatchewan's program of historic site marking is one of the most advanced in Canada. More than one hundred important sites have been designated and marked to date.

One of the most interesting markers used is the Red River cart, symbol of the pioneers who braved the wilderness before the turn of the century. These exact replicas are located at many points throughout the province, marking the famous old trails of the hardy explorers, traders and settlers of the North-West.

Cairns and plaques are two of the other types of markers used to mark the colourful events of Saskatchewan's history.

To the many visitors to our province, we extend a sincere invitation to inspect these sites and share the enjoyment of our heritage with us.

Tourist Camps and Motels

1959 Edition      1959 Edition

Rates quoted in this publication are the latest available from the camp and motel operators listed, but may be subject to change from time to time.

The Government of the Province of Saskatchewan has set forth regulations governing tourist camps and motels. These regulations, designed to ensure that the visitor obtains the best in sanitary facilities and living conditions, deal with matters such as water supply, supervision, maintenance and construction of buildings. Tourist camps are regularly inspected by officials of the Department of Public Health.

Regina

The attractive capital city of the province is centred in the heart of Saskatchewan's famous wheat plains and boasts a population of about 100,000. Regina was named in honour of Queen Victoria and has come to be known as the "Queen City" of the west.

In 1883, it became the seat of government for the North-West Territories and headquarters for the famous North-West Mounted Police (now the Royal Canadian Mounted Police). The scarlet-coated-officers of law and order still make their home in Regina and a tour of the R.C.M.P. barracks and museum is a "must" for all visitors. Other attractions for tourists include the beautiful Legislative Building and gardens on Albert Street; the new Museum of Natural History; Regina College, an affiliate of the University of Saskatchewan; and numerous parks.

A recent building boom of motels, along with several first-class hotels, makes accommodation no problem for the visitor.

The city is well-known throughout Canada for the sporting competition it produces. A variety of sports are enjoyed in season, including swimming, boating, baseball, tennis, badminton, golf, indoor and outdoor bowling, football, shooting, hockey and curling. Regina is the home of the famous Saskatchewan Roughriders football team. A number of good theatres and dance halls add to the entertainment.

Moose Jaw

Third largest city in the province, Moose Jaw is known as "The Friendly City." Although located in an agricultural area, it could well be called the industrial city of Saskatchewan with its oil refineries, mills, meat packing and other industries. Moose Jaw, with a population of 30,000, lies forty miles west of Regina at the junction of Highways Nos. 1, 2 and 39.

Two outstanding tourist attractions are the Natatorium indoor swimming pool, lounge and tea shop and the Moose Jaw wild animal park, just outside the city limits. Other attractions include Crescent Park, with its formal gardens and winding streams, and River Park, which features picnic grounds, swimming and boating facilities, and children's playgrounds.

SAFETY LIMITS

Speed limits on Saskatchewan's vast network of highways vary in different areas and depend on the type of highway being travelled.

Most hard-surfaced highways and some gravelled highways have a speed limit of 60 miles per hour by day and 50 miles per hour by night. The great majority of the gravel and other highways in the province have a limit of 50 miles per hour. Remember that these are the maximum limits only and you should use your best judgment before deciding how fast you will travel.

Speed laws are rigidly enforced by officers of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and the Provincial Highway Patrol, and radar is used in enforcing the law.

Visitors to the province, and Saskatchewan residents are asked to co-operate fully by obeying all marked highway signs. Above all—please drive safely. Your life and the lives of others depend on it.

Saskatoon

Often called the Hub City because of the large rural area it serves, the City of Saskatoon on the shores of the Saskatchewan River can justly lay claim to a great deal of beauty. Besides its many parks and modern residential areas, the many bridges which span the river in a few short miles contribute to the scenery. The popular Bessborough Hotel, too, is a valuable addition to this picturesque centre.

Saskatoon has wide streets, an up-to-date shopping district, and has ample accommodation in its modern motels and hotels to take care of the tourist. The University of Saskatchewan, and several colleges and other educational institutions, bring large numbers of young people to the city. Other points of interest are the new $10,000,000 University Hospital and the Western Development Museum.

Northwest Saskatchewan

An area of lakes, rolling prairie and parkland, northwest Saskatchewan has come to be one of our most pleasant vacation districts.

Just 70 years ago the last battles fought on Canadian soil were raging here, during the time of the Riel Rebellion. Battleford National Historic Park, located at the town of Battleford, and other historic attractions serve as a reminder of those early days.

The northwest has something to offer anyone who is holiday-bound. For family outings, there are well-developed lake resorts with good beaches, and for the angler there are fish aplenty. In autumn, hunters find upland game and migratory waterfowl shooting that ranks with the best, to say nothing of the excellent big game opportunities.

The Far North

Saskatchewan's rugged northland, consisting of almost half the area of the province, is a vast region of water, trees and rocks.

Until recent years it was known mainly by trappers and a few prospectors, but now planes with pontoons are a common sight in these remote parts as they set down anglers for some real out-of-this-world fishing. Thousands of lakes and streams have never heard the splash of a fisherman's line and it is this brand of sport fishing which has made fly-in fishing so popular in such a short time.

A friendly welcome awaits you, along with all the necessities from comfortable quarters to the services of a competent guide at any one of the scattered fly-in fishing camps you may choose to visit. Remember, when going up north, take your sleeping bag, make plans well in advance and don't figure on hurrying. You'll have a holiday you'll never forget.

TOURIST FILMS

Several interesting films on Saskatchewan's tourist attractions are available for the asking from the Tourist Branch. All are 16mm., in colour and with sound.

To obtain these films, simply state the date, or dates, when they are required and write Tourist Branch, Department of Travel and Information, Legislative Annex, Regina. There is no charge.

The films are:

"FISHING THE LAST FRONTIER"—10 minutes in length, showing angling for Walleye, Northern Pike and Arctic Grayling in northern Saskatchewan.

"KEEWAYTINOOK"—30 minutes, gives you a ring-side seat on a canoe trip in Saskatchewan's rugged and unspoiled northland.

"HAPPY FISHING GROUND"—20 minutes, takes you on a tour of northern Saskatchewan's lakes and rivers, and lets you see how the big fish are caught.

"SPORT FISHING IN SASKATCHEWAN"—12 minutes, covers the sport fishing waters of the province.

"PELICANS OF LAST MOUNTAIN"—20 minutes, a picture showing the nesting grounds of Pelicans at Last Mountain Lake, and sidelights.

"THE FACE OF SASKATCHEWAN"—35 minutes of brilliant colour. Produced for the Golden Jubilee, the film is a beautiful and humorous portrait of Saskatchewan, her people, her weather and her space.

"CANADIAN CAPER"—Colour, 20 minutes, showing sport fishing in Saskatchewan's famous Lac la Ronge—one of the continent's great fishing lakes—Walleye, Northern Pike and Lake Trout. Also fly-casting for Arctic Grayling at Black Lake.

Facts on Saskatchewan

Saskatchewan—Cree for "swift flowing"—derives its name from the Saskatchewan River, which is the largest in the province.

The area was part of the North-West Territories until 1905 when it became a province. Saskatchewan's 251,700 square miles cover an expanse 761 miles long, with an average width of 335 miles. At the beginning of 1957, the population of Saskatchewan reached 880,665.

Geographical features vary from open agricultural plains in the south, through parklands and commercial forest north to lakes, streams, rivers and rock of the Pre-Cambrian region.

There are ten cities in Saskatchewan, all offering excellent shopping facilities and each with an individuality all its own:

REGINA—approximately 100,000, Jan. 1, 1959—Capital of province and seat of provincial government. Home of Royal Canadian Mounted Police and Museum of Natural History.

SASKATOON—over 80,000, July 26, 1958—Scenic city with many bridges spanning the South Saskatchewan river which flows through it. Home of University of Saskatchewan and new University Hospital, as well as a Western Development Museum.

MOOSE JAW—over 30,000, 1958—The "friendly city." An industrial centre in an agricultural area. Wild animal park and natatorium, and Crescent Park—worthy of visitors' attention.

PRINCE ALBERT—over 23,000, 1958—Gateway to northern fishing waters, Prince Albert National Park and other holiday attractions. See the Lund Wildlife Exhibit, and the historic site on the River Street.

SWIFT CURRENT—11,500, 1958—This rapidly expanding southwestern city is the home of the annual "Frontier Days" celebration, and also of the Dominion Experimental farm.

NORTH BATTLEFORD—9,644, 1958—Has Fort Battleford National Historic Park nearby, and a Western Development Museum is located in the city.

YORKTON—8,184, 1958—Serving a wide agricultural region, the city has a Western Development Museum to attract the tourist.

WEYBURN—8,500, 1958—Located on the main highway artery leading into Saskatchewan from the southeast, this area is a mecca for upland game hunters in season.

ESTEVAN—6,800, 1958—The province's most southeasterly city, Estevan achieved city status in 1957. A thriving community close to the U.S. border, Estevan, called "the power centre," is rich in coal resources and has a mounting oil boom.

LLOYDMINSTER—5,387—Achieving city status on January 1, 1958, this centre is situated exactly on the 4th Meridian, the dividing boundary between Saskatchewan and Alberta. Known as the Capital of black oil, it is also a rich agricultural community.
